“ The day my son brought Freddy home was the day my family grew. On the outside Fred may have looked and acted tough, but if knew him you knew his heart. Always quick with a joke or dry sarcasm, he'd step out of his comfort zone to help a person in need. His girls were his world and light of his life. I dont have many words because somerimes they just arent enough to describe the love I have fir him. May his family draw closer during thus loss knowing what a truly amazing person they shared with the world. I will forever see his childish impish smile wondering what hes up to in his knew adventures. Thank you Mary for sharing your boy with my family, my children lost a brother and we lost a son. Hug Gar-Gar for me. Love Madre

“ We've been friends so long, I can barely remember a time we weren't. In fact, you were more than a friend...you were my brother. This last week has shown how loved you were. Your loss is a hole in all our hearts. Rest easy bro. #KingKeat4Ever
