“ Scotty, the first time I met you was when I had the pleasure of taking care of your late wife. I always looked forward to interacting with you because I saw the love that you both shared and the love that you gave to all her nurses. I was elated the day you called me and said Charmaine.. guess what I going to be a volunteer at Jefferson, and ever since then we have always shared a common bond.. Over the many years we would always reflect and joke about me being your wife's favorite nurse.. I will forever and always cherish our conversations and laughs.. Rest in peace my dear friend, You are a true angel and I will definitely miss you busting each others chops, amd making each other laugh.
